Major Christian Doctrines EP133
Fall Semester 2019
Instructor: Michael J. McGrath, Ph.D.
Email: mmcgrath@cst.edu

Course Description:

A study of the major theological doctrines of the Christian faith, particularly as they have been expressed in the liberal, neo-orthodox, and evangelical theological traditions of the Church, for the purpose of understanding the task of theology, its doctrinal formulations and their systematic interrelationship.

Texts:

Karl Barth, Dogmatics in Outline (Harper & Row)

Stanley J. Grenz and Jay T. Smith, Created For Community: Connecting Christian Belief with Christian Living, Third Edition (Baker)

George A. Lindbeck, The Nature of Doctrine: Religion and Theology in a Postliberal Age, 25th Anniversary Edition (Westminster)

John Macquarrie, Principles of Christian Theology, 2nd Edition (Macmillan)

Sallie McFague, Models of God: Theology for an Ecological, Nuclear Age (Fortress)

Recommended Text:

Samuel E. Stumpf and James Fieser, Socrates to Sartre and Beyond, 7th Ed. (McGraw-Hill, 2003)

Learning Objectives:

- Define systematic theology
- Identify the task, methods, and sources of systematic theology
- Compare and understand distinct perspectives within 20th century systematic theology (up to 1970), focusing on liberal, neo-orthodox, and evangelical theology
- Show how these perspectives affect the formulation of Christian doctrine
- Facilitate the student's recognition and understanding of their own theological perspective
- Articulate these understandings in the form of two written papers

Grading: Based on class participation and two take-home examinations
